

Peppercard Finance is all set to launch its native Peppercard Token on the Binance Blockchain

The Peppercard token powers their ecosystem and rewards its holders with not one but three other tokens. Their default three tokens are WBNB, Y5 Token and Reflecto Coin, they also have an option to customize your token rewards.

Raleigh, North Carolina Mar 17, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Peppercard Finance is a Fintech-driven money management system that hopes to bring the mass adoption of cryptocurrency use closer, with a roadmap rich in API development and integration, they aim to bridge the gaps between centralized and decentralized finance. The company offers a gasless dApp, rewards multiple reflections to its holders, and also has a buyback with a strategic burn system, making the token hyper deflationary.

The main focus behind this company is to develop the right kind of utilities that will help in creating a more stable passive income stream that doesn't rely solely on transaction tax.

One of the key spokesperson for the company was quoted as saying,

“We are excited about the endless possibilities for growth and revenue generation our ecosystem holds. Our 2022 roadmap includes staking, farming, and efficient lending and borrowing platform. Our highlight for this year would definitely be JenFin, our money management system. We are looking forward to offering one of the best-integrated money management systems to date.”

The company believes in having realistic and practical goals as it simply wants to offer real-world financial solutions for real-world people.

There are several amazing features that this token ecosystem has to offer and one of those includes NFT boosters. Purchase and hold one of Pepperbird Finance NFT while staking and you will earn a higher percentage. The company plans to create multiple avenues to increase the passive income of its holders.

Pepperbird Finance has a dedicated charity initiative with a percentage of transaction fees going towards charities that work in Africa with a focus on West Africa. Along with their Africa charity initiative, they have also allocated a portion of their charity fee to funding charities in the United States that are focused on veterans, women, and children.
