

Soul of DFW Rides Again After Two-Year Pandemic Imposed Hiatus

Popular food and Black history tour reopens next month, with excitement and anticipation

Dallas, Texas Mar 21, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - The Soul of DFW's last bus tour was exactly two years ago before closing due to Covid-19 restrictions. Founder Deah Berry Mitchell is excited about the opportunity to get back in front of audiences adding, "I've been waiting for this a long time. Every week we get emails from anxious former passengers asking when we're coming back. I can't tell you how good it feels to get back in front of folks and continue to educate the community – our community - about local Black culture, and what better way to learn about people than through history and good food?" The only experience in the city that combines a unique blend of cultural immersion with the guidance of a professional historian and food writer. The sold-out experiences owned by parent company Nostalgia Black Group, promise new historical sites and even more food the second time around. Something else that's new? Berry Mitchell will be leaning into her culinary history background and offering food history tours coming soon! Take a trip around the city while exploring the world one bite at a time.
