Located in Jersey City's Powerhouse Arts District, 150 Bay Street is a true mix of historic and modern architectural details. Built-in 1908 by architect Howard Chapman, originally the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company building (A&P Building), 150 Bay Street is a landmark listed under the Federal Register of Historic Places.

Now, a multipurpose building with private offices, art studio workspaces, retail storefronts, and residential lofts, the building serves as a cultural anchor to a vibrant community of artists, entrepreneurs, and college students. In 2020, Nyack College students moved into their custom-built residential lofts fully equipped with spacious kitchens, modern appliances, lounge areas, and a state-of-the-art fitness center.

As a part of the ongoing evolution of 150 Bay Street, an entire 40,000 sf floor has been developed as affordable studio space in the heart of Jersey City's Powerhouse Arts District. Ranging from 200 -to 1200 square feet, the studios are modern and sleek with great attention paid to details and amenities that will drive inspiration, collaboration, and creativity.

Established in 2018, the artists of 150 Bay have joined forces to form a committee, in an attempt to revitalize the artist community and bring attention to our diverse group of talent. Together, GFP Real Estate and ART150 are pulling together their resources to showcase amazing artwork, promote each other's talents, bring awareness to the Jersey City community and revamp the district that was dubbed the "Powerhouse" of the arts.
