

Artist will launch NFT collection with Polaroid portraits of celebrities.

The photos have a vibe of street-style photography, but with the delicious texture and mood of Polaroid.

Paris, France Apr 26, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - From influencers, top models, and fashion designers to A-list celebrities, few stars have escaped the lenses of Franco-Brazilian artist-photographer Antonio Barros.

Antonio Barros has been photographing celebrities for more than 15 years. Karl Lagerfeld, Rihanna, Anna Wintour, Heidi Klum, Kanye West, Anne Hathaway, Kate Moss, Giorgio Armani, and Pamela Anderson are just some of the names he has snapped with his Polaroid camera.

His most beloved project, “The Singular”, which was featured in Vogue UK, Vogue Brazil, and several other magazines will be available soon as NFT for collectors. The work was done with an original Polaroid film and portrays celebrities he had the opportunity to cross paths with.

“Time will eventually fade the analog polaroids and NFTs are the best form to protect the pictures from the danger of losing them,” says Antonio.

The artist received many offers for the polaroids, but he never had the courage to sell the original prints. Just like his Polaroids, each NFT will be unique.

The NFT collection will include Polaroids taken over the past 15 years and some unpublished images. A portion of the proceeds from the sale of the NFTs will be used to open a permanent exhibition in Paris and New York with the original Polaroids. The gallery will have free admission and will also have a space dedicated to new talents.

Antonio Barros is sending a personal invite to all fashion, art, and music fans to join his Instagram account where he will announce soon the official launch date and the platform where the minted NFTs will be available.

To take a peek at the polaroids that will possibly be available as NFT, visit the artist's Instagram profile @antoniobarrosfr

About Antonio Barros

Antonio Barros is a fashion and beauty photographer. Currently contributor at Voge Brazil.

Throughout his career, Antonio Barros has worked with start-ups and famous brands from the fashion and beauty industry, advertising agencies, publishers, modeling agencies, and countless celebrities. Today, with over 15 years of experience, Antonio is specialized in fashion photography and advertising photography.

Antonio also worked for Dior, Prada, Fendi, Louis Vuitton, Wella, International Flavors & Fragrances Inc, O Boticario, Marie Claire Thailand, InStyle, Pfizer, Getty Images, WireImage, and many others.

Media Contact

Antonio Barros

antoniobarros@antoniobarros.fr

Source : Antonio Barros

See on IssueWire