

Food intolerances-based app Korean Convenience helps people enjoy Korean foods without worrying about allergies.

California, United States Apr 29, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Food allergy is one of the biggest problems in the world faced by people from all generations. It is extremely hard for people dealing with food allergies to find ready-made food that does not contain any of the allergens they are sensitive to. Korean Convenience app assists people with food intolerances to find ready-made Korean food easier for Korean food lovers. Korean foods have a wide variety of ready-made snacks and they are extremely healthy for people as well. The application is free to download and use and people can find allergy-free packaged food products at affordable prices without an effort.

According to Food Allergy Research & Education, 32 million people are living with potentially life-threatening food allergies in the USA right now. They need to have a detailed list of the ingredients of the food items on the back of the product labels so that they can know if the item they want to buy has any of the allergens they are allergic to. The products found on the app have all the detailed information on the ingredients.

The application is extremely easy to use. The users can search for the food items they want to buy in both English and Hangul on the Korean Convenience app. Product types, product names, brand names, the name of the allergen, and ingredient names are all available in both languages. Both the front and back photos of the product packaging on the app so the buyers can clearly see the ingredients list. The prices of the products are listed in Korean Won. The products can be filtered by allergies, prices, and ingredients. Buyers can search the food items by the top 9 allergies including gluten, milk, sesame, fish, eggs, wheat, peanut, and meat filters.

There are more than 150 products available right now on the Korean Convenience application. The buyers can find items like bread, chips, crackers, ramen, soup, canned foods, cookies, drinks, snacks, and many more items that are extremely healthy. The users can add new products to the inventory of the app by getting in touch with the app and including the brand name, allergy type, and additional notes on what they want to see on the app. The users must create an account to save their allergies and favorite products; they can even skip creating an account to browse through the items by clicking on the 'skip for now' button.

Korean Convenience is a Korean food supplying app that is founded by Erica Dozier who personally deals with various allergies like shellfish, tree nuts, and peanuts. When she moved to South Korea, she struggled to read the ingredients on the product labels that were written in Hangul. After she moved back to the USA, she created a free mobile app Korean Convenience that has ingredient lists written in both Hangul and English so Korean food lovers can enjoy the Korean delicacies without having to worry about allergic reactions. The app is available on both Google Play and the App Store. Find out more at <https://koreanconvenience.com>.

korean-convenience

support@koreanconvenience.com

Source : korean-convenience

See on IssueWire