

Leo Spada and his NFT "Red Emotions" collection

New York City, New York May 1, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - After a life dedicated to art in its most traditional forms, Leo Spada is enjoying considerable interest in his digital creations. He has passed from painting and glass processing to modern forms of digital art that he interprets with commitment and originality.

This year he decided to use the blockchain to certify some of his works, publishing his first NFTs. Leo Spada is active on the Foundation platform on which he created the Red Emotions collection which brings together some of the most important NFTs.

This collection describes the emotions we feel when faced with the challenges of life.

Taking inspiration from his subconscious, the artist transfers emotions through digital art and expresses everyone's feelings.

Being a distinctive element of this collection, the red figure represents the artist but also every observer who is led to into experiencing the same emotions.

You can discover his artworks on Foundation or by visiting his personal website.
