Get to know Geriatrician Dr. Theodore T. Suh, who serves the population of Michigan.

New York City, New York Apr 15, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - An established geriatrician, Dr. Suh serves as the Medical Director at East Ann Arbor Geriatrics Clinic and is a Clinical Professor of Geriatric and Palliative Medicine at the University of Michigan. His clinical and research interests include geriatric and functional assessment, falls, osteoporosis, cancer and medication use in older adults, use of electronic medical records in improving patient care, and sleep disorders in elderly patients.

Academically, he received his medical degree and Doctor of Philosophy degree (Ph.D.) from the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine, and his Master of Health Science degree (MHS) from Duke University. He completed his residency in internal medicine at Cleveland Clinic and his fellowship in geriatric medicine at Duke University and Durham VA Medical Center.

Following his training, the doctor attained board certification in geriatric medicine and internal medicine through the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM). The ABIM is a physician-led, non-profit, independent evaluation organization driven by doctors who want to achieve higher standards for better care in a rapidly changing world.

Geriatrics, or geriatric medicine, is a specialty that focuses on the health care of elderly people. It aims to promote health by preventing and treating diseases and disabilities in older adults. Geriatricians are physicians who work primarily with the elderly. Although they address their patients' multiple medical problems and chronic illnesses, geriatricians focus primarily on the quality of life and functional ability. They determine when it is no longer medically safe for seniors to live alone and counsel them on alternative living arrangements, as well as counsel patients and families on the end of life care.
