

Good 3nergy Expands to the Turbine Industry

10X Expansion

Orlando, Florida May 7, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Good 3nergy, a company out of Orlando, FL has announced its expansion into the turbine industry. They have been working on commercial solutions for solar and CHP (combined heat and power), but now they are turning their focus on gas turbines for big business. With the support of carbon credit incentives coming over the next year, Good 3nergy will be able to become a leader in this space with its expansive knowledge of commercial renewable energy solutions. Christopher Whitt and his team at Good 3nergy are excited to be able to help companies save money and stop climate change at the same time.

Good 3nergy Solar Brokerages has expanded its operation to include gas turbine solutions for big businesses. With carbon credits coming to fruition over the next year, they will be able to become an authority on the change in the commercial space. The expansion is due to the extensive amount of work Good 3nergy has been doing in the commercial space and with partners Capstone, Flex, Caterpillar, GE, and Progen. The company has brokered a deal with these companies that will allow them to start their next phase of expansion which will be focused on gas turbine solutions for big businesses.
