

Online Yoga School Launches Official 200 Hour Yoga Teacher Training Program Online

Yoga & Ayurveda Center launches an online yoga teacher certification. The 200-hour program is a must-see for yoga enthusiasts and those who want to teach.

Easton, Pennsylvania May 5, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Yoga & Ayurveda Center is a yoga school registered with the Yoga Alliance. The school announces the launch of a 200-Hour yoga training teaching program online. This new addition to an already excellent queue of training programs is just one of the many reasons why the school remains a top favorite for many yoga enthusiasts. With the school's credentials, students can expect a lot from the new online yoga teacher certification program.

Bonus Offers

Since the program is new, the school wants to make it easier for students to sign up. Those looking for a 200-hour online yoga training course can look forward to getting several certifications once the program is done, including a chair yoga teacher certification, Yoga Alliance Continuing Education-Restorative Yoga Teacher certification, and an Ayurveda specialist certification. Students will also receive a meditation enrollment worth ten days. However, the bonuses are only available for a limited time, so students must hurry if they want to sign up and receive those freebie offers.

Bonus Teaching Tools

Aside from the certifications, students of the program can also expect a lot of bonus teaching tools. From sample waivers and health history forms to letters of agreement for the workshop, class themes, and more, participants in the program can look forward to receiving a lot of materials. These materials won't go to waste as they can be used as references to guide students when they make their own modules and materials for their students.

Bonus Education Tools

Students can also receive new video content, pose breakdowns, and more helpful materials. With all the resources available to them, handling classes on their own in the future will be so much easier. Students who plan on getting the training to build their own yoga practice and meditation center can receive bonus tools that can make a difference in their skills and practice.

More Benefits

The school's program offers live zoom sessions. With trained instructors, the sessions are often effective and generate better results for the students. Because students have a wide range of reasons for pursuing training to become yoga instructors, the program is designed to address these reasons. Some want to go to the program to teach yoga. They love the body practice and want to teach others how yoga can help them, too. Other students just want to improve their knowledge and deepen their practice. The program provides them with plenty of opportunities to challenge what they know and work harder to improve their skills. By going to the sessions, they can expand their knowledge and take their training to the next level. The program is open to all students.

Lifetime Access

Once students sign up for the program, they can also look forward to getting lifetime access to the school's materials and resources. That makes the training ideal for would-be instructors as they can use those materials as references or guides. The materials can help them design a better learning experience for the students that they'll have in the future.
