Prayan Animation celebrates its tenth anniversary this year, and it has been an incredible ride. Prayan has grown from a small start-up to one of the most diverse media companies in India. Prayan has been at the forefront of specialised content development, production, and distribution for the past ten years.

Prayan has expanded its global reach in the field of animation as it progresses into global expansion. By collaborating with YouTube Originals and Diamond Films Canada, it has made significant progress in terms of production, post-production, and co-production.

"No one can succeed unless they enjoy what they do," says Prayan CEO Vinayan V. "One of the first lessons I learned at Prayan was the importance of ensuring that our team has the right values and vision while remaining innovative."

Despite the current business environment's challenges, their Managing Director Remesh Ram has inspired them to make a mark in the market. "Our goal is to grow through hard work," he says. We have gained a wealth of knowledge as a result of all of our incredible collaborations, and we intend to strengthen our position and expand our commercial operations. Our desire to expand our footprints internationally and become global market leaders has been bolstered by our workforce and workspace expansion.

This year's Beyond the Curve, Kidz Cinema at the Vesuvius International Film Festival, and Animafest GDANSK Film Festival awards went to Dreams (a short film about environmental conservation). World Earth Day is April 22nd, and "Dreams" was released on their YouTube channel on the same day. Prayan's production work on IP DINO captures the essence of filmmaking and demonstrates their never-ending dedication to pushing the boundaries of established standards and evolving in the medium.

Prayan creates nearly 300 minutes of 2D animation content each year, as well as artwork for children's books and game content creation. Sonic Bird, a 26-episode series set to premiere in 2024, has recently teamed up with Helen Christabel Parker, an Australian/Canadian television producer and writer from Diamond Film Canada. Helen is an award-winning Fox/News Corp journalist who has produced three number one television shows for Australia's Nine and Seven networks. Sonic Birds is a film about five endangered Australian birds who flee poachers only to find themselves far from home — in Europe! — and realise that they must overcome their differences in order to return to Australia and that each of them must be a team player.

In the last ten years, Prayan has grown from a small startup to a company with 80 employees and a large number of partner studios. Employees at the organisation are a mix of creative and business specialists who share the goal of role excellence. Prayan is confident in his ability to dominate the market and celebrate many more success stories in the coming years with such a dynamic team.
