Most people are scared to buy secondhand products because they think they will stop working the day after they get their hands on them. The finest and royal timepieces are expensive, indeed and if you're spending your hard-earned money on a luxury watch, getting real value for money is crucial. Thanks to the platform like Second Movement, where luxury watches go through a long series of quality checks and testing by in-house technicians before including them in the catalog to boost confidence in the pre-owned watch market. Skilled staff check for every detail meticulously, be it identifying whether the component is genuine, what's the condition of the product, or other technical aspects.

The in-house team of watch consultants has the potential to identify genuine timepieces and authenticate the watches they feature in the catalog. Selling a watch is an easy 4-step process, including finding a watch, speaking to an expert, quality checks, and receiving payment once finalized.

The Second Movement features a number of elegant watches that showcase innovation, technological advancement, and royalty. Here are the two top favorites:
