

Best Personal Blender For Smoothies? Blend And Go With Cocinare Blender

Keep Healthy On The Go With Cocinare Blender

Los Angeles, California Jun 30, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Smoothie blenders are an essential kitchen item (particularly if you enjoy making smoothies at home), but they may take up a lot of counters or cabinet space. There is a growing awareness that using a blender is extremely helpful to get more green veggies into your diet, add nutrient-rich fiber, and increase protein intake. The demand for personal blenders has been increasing in recent years due to how practical and convenient they are. Not only do they take up a lot less room than countertop blenders, but portable blenders are also known for being quicker and more convenient than traditional blenders for those who need to whip up something in a few seconds.

THE BEAST AND THE NEW BEAUTY

Last year, Colin Sapiere, the former CEO of NutriBullet, introduced the Beast blender and formally entered the personal blender industry. Despite being marketed as a personal blender, the Beast blender costs $155 at retail, which is even a little more than the 1200 Watt countertop blender from NutriBullet. Recently, the market welcomes a serious contender in terms of design, functionality, and pricing, the GoPower eLite personal blender from Cocinare.

The Cocinare blender would be a disruptive product as it is not only portable and super easy to use but also has the same power as a countertop blender. Plus, the Cocinare personal blender combines the sports bottle and the blender bottle into one, offering a fantastic blend-to-go feature.

You can crush ice or any other hard ingredients with the Cocinare personal blender, as well as make one to three servings of smoothies, shakes, and margaritas, and blend small batches of dressings, sauces, and soups.

A SOLID BUILD WITH CHIC APPEAL

Despite the practical and powerful features, the Cocinare blender is incredibly Instagrammable. It's the kind of modern, sleek personal blender you'd find in the house of Lululemon-loving, AirPods-wearing aesthetes.

The Cocinare Blender has all the appearance, feel, and sturdiness of a well-made product. In addition to being overmolded with TPE (thermoplastic rubbers) for greater grip and a gentler placing on your counter, the vessel's base is wide for stability. The ultra-durable aluminum alloy blades include a 4-rib vortex design to increase turbulence during blending, which contributes to the creation of creamier mixes. All lids are leak proof and the rims are mellow enough to drink straight from.

Cocinare GoPower eLite blender is now available on Amazon, priced at $99.99 and you may get it for under $80 after a coupon. Get your Cocinare personal blender and power your day with healthy drinks.
