

NYT & USA Today Bestselling Romance Authors Launch A Reproductive Rights Charity Anthology

NOT WELL

BEHAVED

WOMEN

A STEAMY ROMANCE CHARITY ANTHOLOGY

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Jun 10, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - CONTACT:
info@notwellbehavedwomen.com

New York Times and USA Today bestselling romance authors band together to launch the charity anthology, Not Well Behaved Women. All proceeds will benefit the Center for Reproductive Rights. They are a global human rights organization of lawyers and advocates who ensure the protection of reproductive rights in law as a fundamental human right for every person's dignity, equality, health, and well-being.

According to the Center for Reproductive Rights, reproductive health "bans fall hardest on people who already face discriminatory obstacles to health care—Black, Indigenous, and other people of color, women, the LGBTQI+ community, people with disabilities, people in rural areas, young people, undocumented people, and those having difficulty making ends meet."

This collection celebrates female protagonists who embrace their sexuality, high-powered career women, and sassy leads who know what they want and aren't afraid to take it. During these challenging and unprecedented times, the romance reading community focuses on creative ways to support reproductive justice.

RELEASE DATE: The anthology will be released on Tuesday, August 16th, 2022.

Link: Learn More

Find Not Well Behaved Women online at notwellbehavedwomen.com.

###

Media Contact

Julie Gamble Designs

juliegambledesigns@gmail.com

Source : Swoon Worthy Publishing

See on IssueWire

