

Rodan's Peak Notifications Can Save Your Company in Ontario

A key solution for mitigating global adjustment is now available for everyone regardless of your automation systems you already have in place. Rodan is offering the ability to trial their notification system for free.

Toronto, Ontario Jun 29, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Rodan Energy Solutions, www.rodanenergy.com has announced their Premium Peak Notification service that has been helping North American power users, battery operators, and grid-connected resource owners manage peak energy charges for over a decade has been updated to reflect better predictions and notifications and provide actionable insights for better decisions.

Businesses are saving millions a year by using peak notification services to manage Ontario's Global Adjustment charges. With the service offered by Rodan, users receive peak advice from the company that is relied on daily by energy traders for timely energy market data.

The question really is "Do you think your company can afford not to curtail during peaks?" Ontario's Global Adjustment fees account for the largest component of supply-related charges. Rodan's tools are designed with the sole purpose of helping you reduce the GA charge as much as possible.

"We're so confident that you'll love our all-new peak notification & dashboard, that we want you to try it for free," says Rodan Energy Solutions Vince Thomas

There are options for every Class A customer; from Industrial load curtailers to commercial facilities running battery storage, to help minimize global adjustment charges.

Get a free trial of the software until June 30th.
