"What About Me" by Daniel John gives all the lovely vibes one craves for their loved ones. The artist is breaking the boundaries of excellence with his new launch.

music video "What About Me", full of refreshing music and soothing lyrics. The artist has absolutely nailed it this time with the amazing creativity in the music video. The music video starts with the artist singing outdoors in a park. The beautiful storyline continues as the artist seems to engage himself inside a video game where he finds a female cop. Both the characters have played their part perfectly in the music video as they seem to challenge each other, as the frame displays both of them playing in a video game. The beats and the rhythm in the song seem to delve and mix with the music effortlessly.

Directed by Creed Productions, mixed and mastered by itzDrummaWorld, and produced by Socialhooligans, the music video is paving the way for the artist to become one of the renowned personalities in the present music industry. The music video is on course to reach the mark of 30k views within less than three days of its release. Some of the other productions that have been written and sung by the artist are "MY WAY", "DON'T PLAY WITH ME", "ALL EYES ON ME", "I Can Not Lie", and the list continues. The artist is building a platform of self-expression of love and emotions with the type and the theme of songs he is coming up with.

Brought up in a traditional home setting where reggae and classical music were the norms, Daniel John is a talented learner who always seeks the positives from society.
