She believes in approaching wellness or preventative health, with each person individually, and utilized conventional medicine with naturopathic medicine. She specializes in women's health, and peri-menopausal issues including weight loss, but is very intuitive when it comes to sports injuries, diabetic management, nutrition, depression, and anxiety.

On a more personal note, Celeste attributes her success to her true desire to heal people and to find the best way to do so. She is an avid swimmer and a voracious reader, and also enjoys kayaking, playing tennis, experimenting in the kitchen, paper crafting, and lazing around the pool.
