

Chris L Davis Is The Wunderkind Of The Sports Branding And Marketing Industry.

Los Angeles, California Jul 8, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - For some, it takes years to get a breakthrough to know what they want, while for others, they have known what they want to achieve since childhood. The one who knew it all right from his childhood was Chris L. Davis. Being the oldest of all five siblings and his mother being a single parent, life was not exactly a smooth ride for Chris. He was adamant about becoming a millionaire one day. The little guy started his first small venture at a very young age by selling candies from the back door of his grandmother's house. Right there was the spark within him that ignited that day to become an excellent entrepreneur.

He was very positive thinking, forward-thinking, and always willing to learn. These were the drives that Chris was always running behind, and he himself did not know why. All he knew was that from the time he hit his teen years, he wanted to be successful and free his mother from all the work that she had to do.

His track and field career started when he was 12 years old. His mother even went on to attend Garinger High School in Charlotte, North Carolina. Well, now we know that Chris has achieved what he wanted. He is the founder of a sports branding and marketing company called CLD Sports. CLD Sports was formed with the idea of being a company that provides sports branding and marketing to athletes at all levels, from high school to college. Davis is making sure that other athletes receive the attention they deserve and the opportunity to not only make a name for themselves but for the world to know that name. He helps athletes get the recognition they deserve.

Media Contact

Pixerark Media

pixerark2021@gmail.com

Source : Pixerark Media

See on IssueWire