

Heart In Diamond Excels in Latest Collection Ashes to Diamond Jewellery

London, United Kingdom Jul 30, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Embedded with sentiments, Heart In Diamond has proposed a new product line that depicts the new meaning of emotions. This leading manufacturer of lab-grown diamonds claims its specialization in authentic diamond creation made out of carbon recovered from the ashes or hair of loved ones. The company is offering a European manufacturing facility that evolves with cutting-edge HPHT machinery in order to design optical-quality products. However, the new product variation is now going to preserve your memories forever caged in form of a precious gem. The company announces 5 easy steps to shape the memorial diamond piece for the customers. One can either choose from the 500+ design options or can send a personalized proposal.

Once you send the ashes or hair of your loved one, the lab experts start extracting carbon from the sample and it is ready to be reshaped as a diamond. When it comes to environmental degradation, Heart In Diamond signifies the answer with its natural-resourced product manufacturing ideas. It further encourages a customer to contribute to a safer and brighter world. A certificate of authentication is offered to every customer detailing the source of the diamond. Heart In Diamond claims that their customers from the UK will be assured with an AnchorCert issued by the UK gemological laboratory. Visit them to capture the essence of the memories.
