The Art is an example of Art & Design merging with Engineering & Science. The artist uses a weathervane that is shaped in the form of Cupid's Arrow. The heart-shaped arrow rotates 180 degrees which are used to not only measure wind but also as a metaphoric expression to describe people who change their views frequently. "In a chaotic world, when faced with a dilemma, let love guide your way," said Goradesky. The outdoor love sculpture brings meaningful and playful public art to the City of Dania Beach by prominent South Florida artist Lloyd Goradesky, connecting the public to one-of-a-kind visual experiences. Goradesky's projects use the power of art to create social interaction and dialogue using innovative technology combined with his unique use of materials, as well as incorporating natural elements within the environment such as sunlight, wind, rain, etc., to amplify the design or effect of a public art piece.

Lloyd Goradesky was born and raised in Miami Beach with a unique background in art, business, and design. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from the University of Florida in Gainesville, and an MBA from Nova Southeastern University in Fort Lauderdale. He resides in Hollywood, Florida where he lives and works. He is widely recognized for his iconic public art projects that allow the community to experience art in their daily life, thereby creating a greater sense of place and identity.

"Goradesky's work is compared to Christo & Jean-Claude. Using the Power of Art to bring awareness to our natural surroundings, Goradesky's art extends from multi-media design to complex material creations," said Discovery Channel of Lloyd Goradesky's work. His 'Let LOVE Guide Your Way' kinetic weathervane was part of a public art group showcase created by the Boynton Beach Arts Commission and produced by the City of Boynton Beach through its Art in Public Places program.
