

Meet 1 of the 170 Graduates From Goldman Sachs One Million Black Women Black in Business Program

National Harbor, Maryland Jul 22, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Cassandra Hill has graduated from Goldman Sachs One Million Black Women Black in Business program. The graduation was held on July 18th at the National Gaylord Convention Center. This is the inaugural cohort of the program, and her application was accepted out of thousands.

The One Million Black Women Black in Business program provided:

- *Free 12-week online business education program
- * In-person learning at Goldman Sachs headquarters in NYC
- * $2,000 stipend

Goldman Sachs has spent the last decade helping small businesses grow with 10,000 Small Businesses. Now, One Million Black Women is taking it further -- reaching Black women sole proprietors with the tools necessary to turn their business potential into business growth.

Cassandra has also been named Influential African American Women in Business/Corporate by Smart Women Partner. Smart Women Partner is an organization focused on guiding women to monetize their skills and knowledge on LinkedIn.

The successes Cassandra has had come from trusting in God and maintaining physical and emotional wellness. To learn more about how Cassandra transforms the health of Black women visit <http://www.cassandrhill.com>.
