New York City, New York Jul 20, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Stanley is a registered nurse currently affiliated with The Silvercrest Center for Nursing and Rehabilitation in Briarwood, New York. He specializes in family nursing, emergency room nursing, long-term care, and flight nursing.

The Silvercrest Center for Nursing and Rehabilitation offers several areas of special expertise, including physical and occupational therapy, speech and swallowing therapy, ventilator-dependent care, pulmonary rehabilitation, wound care, caring for patients with complex medical needs, and respite care. Their healthcare specialists are leaders in their fields and bring their learning and expertise to patients' cases, resulting in the best possible rehabilitative outcome.

Back in the early days of his academic career, Stanley graduated with his Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree from St. Joseph's University in 1992. He then went on to earn his Master of Business Administration degree from Long Island University in 2005, and his Master of Science in Nursing degree from Long Island Jewish Medical Center in 2006. Furthermore, he is a professional member of the Emergency Nurses Association to remain up to date in his field.

On a more personal note, he attributes his success to his love of nursing, being there for his patients, always learning, the great mentors he has had, and being able to make a difference.

A Registered Nurse (RN) is a nurse who has graduated from a nursing program and met the requirements outlined by a country, state, province, or similar licensing body to obtain a nursing license. RNs fulfill a variety of job duties. In addition to their primary role in treating and caring for patients, their responsibilities also include educating patients and the public about a variety of medical conditions, as well as providing emotional support and advice to the families of their patients. Other RN job functions include leadership, research, performing diagnostic tests and analyzing results, operating medical equipment, administering medications, recording patients' symptoms and medical histories, and assisting with patient rehabilitation and follow-up.
