Not changing or maintaining your air filtration system can directly mean dust, mold, and other airborne particles entering the air and harming indoor air quality. Clogged filters push the system to expend more energy, may not give the airflow you need, and reduce your comfort level. Dirty, outdated, and unchanged filters can cause issues with the HVAC system. Therefore, it is ideal to invest in a reliable air filter to trap pollen, dust, and other contaminated substances in the size of at least 0.3 microns. It can keep smaller and larger particles out of your HVAC system and safeguard them from damage to give peace of mind.

Hubei Clean Environment Protection & Technology Co., Ltd is a renowned air filter manufacturer in China that specialized in designing, producing, and supplying filtration systems at all levels of efficiency. Air filtration solutions play a significant role in numerous industries, including biomedical and pharmaceutical, domestic and commercial environments, laboratories, food and beverage, automotive, chemical and energy units, and so on. The paint booth filters are useful at capturing overspray particles and intake filters work as a primary protective barrier against particles landing on the painting surface. They also provide air filtration for HVAC systems used in both household and commercial purposes, such as HEPA filters, panel filters, pocket filters, V-bank filters, and others suitable for air handling units.

Clean is a trustworthy air filter OEM and ODM factory, dedicatedly meeting US and Europe standards with high-quality ventilation filters for numerous applications.
