Encino, California Aug 3, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - IntPicks.com was founded by a Mensa member who is fascinated by the science of sports handicapping and made a career in forecasting business trends in various industries.

IntPicks is #1 in Sports Handicapping and the Top Place for Free Picks, MLB Picks, NFL Picks, NBA Picks, and NCAA Picks. We have great reviews from 1000's of Members. Join today for Daily free picks and start winning.

The company operated as a private service provider to a select number of clients from 1995 to 2011. We decided to establish IntPicks.com back in 2008, worked on refining our methodology to adjust to a larger number of picks a site like this will require, hired the best talent we can find, and relentlessly tested our process over and over for about 3 years. We started our official website operations and opened our doors to the masses at the beginning of the 2012-13 Football season. Every single pick we released since late August 2012 is transparently displayed on our records page.

Our popularity grew worldwide as the word got around. In order to better serve thousands of members from over 150 countries, we spent months completely redesigning our site and our database but most importantly also revamped our already industry-best black box. IntPicks 2.0 was launched in March 2014 and produced an unprecedented 75% run in College Basketball to finish the season with an all-time industry record 70-23. IntPicks 2.0 continued to build our members' bankrolls with 59%+ win rates across all sports.

We introduced IntPicks 3.0 in late June 2015. IntPicks 3.0 features the most accurate sports handicapping Artificial Intelligence core. The new A.I. enhances itself after each game is played to continuously learn and improve. The number of simulations also increased to 50,000 with this update.

Our current process of picking consistent winners starts out with compiling all available data points we possibly can, running at least 50,000 simulations for each game, and identifying the games where the bettor has an advantage with the given lines.

We don't stop there. We have a team of seasoned handicapping experts around the country who "reality check" our initial picks and provide feedback.

Understanding the basic concepts of handpicking sports

Bettors have been around the block more than a couple of times and generally don't think so. As such, most of them will take some time to examine their selections. Some do this by researching key pieces of information they deem significant, while others will lean heavily on reliable resources to do the heavy lifting.

There are also combinations of both approaches, and several offshoots, some of which are quite advanced while others aim to keep it simple. In all cases, these bettors are handicapped before making their selections. The endeavor of handicap betting is to take guessing out of the equation. It is tough to beat the oddsmakers on a long-term basis, but those who put in the time and effort can improve their chances of doing so.

For those new to online sports betting, handicapping can appear like it's making things more difficult. It's actually a contradictory case. The aim of handicap betting is to make it simpler for you to make your selections with confidence.

Concepts of Handicapping Sports

Tons of different theories on the best way to handicap sports, and data and information you can consider. Moreover, each sport has its nuances to consider. That can make it all appear really confusing to those starting out.

Thankfully, there is a simple base that you can use to build off. For team sports such as basketball, football, baseball, and hockey, start your handicapping journey by gaining a thorough understanding of the following concepts.

- After opening odds for a slate of games are released, you can immediately start scanning and looking for potentially appealing prospects. Once the market had a chance to react, the odds and lines may begin to adjust. The odds can tell a whole lot about probabilities and potential outcomes, so dedicate time to understanding how they work.
- Home-field advantage can twist odds and lines, so it is important to look past that for a second to determine which team is actually better. It can be advantageous to picture them facing off on a neutral field to help decide this. In addition, there are several power rankings systems that rank teams from top to bottom on overall strength.
- Home-field advantage can be a very big deal. But, there are also teams that do extremely well when playing on the road. As part of your routine, devote time to understanding how the two teams perform in the situation they are facing. You can find a home team in a vulnerable spot, as well as a road team that may be in a position to pounce. But, you won't find either of them if you don't take the time to look.
- You will have to look at offense vs. defense on both sides as well as the opposite. For each sport, you can also dig into more specifics, such as an NFL team that has a predicament with pass-catching running backs, or an NBA team that struggles against opposing big men.
- While the recent play is no assurance of what is to come in the future, it is a strong indicator of how things are going for the team overall. If one team is swelling while the other is flailing, you have found an important variable to consider.

IntPicks covers all of the major leagues, including the NBA, NFL, MLB, and NCAA. They publish picks for horse racing, college games, and international competitions. IntPicks combines unparalleled data crunching, simulating the games 50,000 times with the actual players, including the factors like the motivation of the injuries, players, the venue, and much more.

The unique combination of realistic simulations that only get more accurate with every game played and the reality check by the most experienced Vegas industry veterans produces highly scientific and accurate recommendations that produce consistent, year-round winners.
