Houston, Texas Aug 3, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Life Savers Emergency Room is calling on all members of the public to take automobile accidents more seriously, and seek appropriate treatment for auto accident injuries, immediately after experiencing an auto crash. The Houston-based clinic maintains that failure to access medical treatment immediately after an automobile accident could have severe consequences on the victim's life, which can sometimes prove irreversible.

Globally, around 1.35 million people are killed in road accidents each year while an average of 3,700 people lose their lives daily to auto crashes. In the United States, studies have revealed that automobile accidents are the leading cause of death among healthy Americans, with tens of thousands of people sustaining varying degrees of injuries every year.

The Houston-based Life Savers 24/7 ER, insists that all victims of an automobile accident must visit the emergency room for observation, regardless of whether they have visible injuries or not. According to Life Savers Emergency Room, such screenings are vital in protecting auto accident survivors from future health complications that can develop days, weeks, or even months after the traumatic ordeal.

"Being involved in an automobile accident can be a scary experience but knowing what to do after an accident is important to protect yourself," says Dr. Foyé Ikyaator, medical director of Life Savers ER. "Even if you do not have an injury that seems serious at the time of the accident, going to the ER is necessary particularly in serious collisions involving other drivers, if not only for your health and safety but for legal protection as well."

In addition to assisting patients with filing claims and insurance processes, the clinic also provides full hospital services and operates an observation program that saves them thousands of dollars in hospital fees, while still allowing them the comfort of receiving one-to-one care.

Driven by its mission of providing quality and affordable emergency services to people of all races and social classes, Life Savers ER Houston Emergency Room locations offer free medical screenings to all auto accident victims. From X-rays to CT scans, ultrasounds, or lab work, the clinic's medical professionals and board-certified doctors are always available to attend to patients' needs 24/7 in any of its three locations in Willowbrook, Heights, and Summerwood.

Run by a team of experienced physicians, all Life Savers emergency rooms are fully equipped to handle life-threatening conditions quickly and are designed to offer the best-specialized care to victims of auto crashes.
