London, United Kingdom Aug 4, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - What would you think if you could stay around the world for free for 14 days? Most would not believe it since the average cost of accommodation is around $4,000 for a 2-week traditional vacation. With skyrocketing inflation, hotel accommodations have increased by over 65% in cost. Holiday Swap offers its users “travel the world free and sustainably”

The cost of travel has been increasing each day around the world. In 2019, 39 million people, making up around 15% of adults, could not afford a summer vacation. The industry has become more dangerous to the environment as well despite the governments, NGOs, and other companies’ sustainable travel initiatives. However, the home exchange platform Holiday Swap took the initiative to make travel more affordable and sustainable for everyone.

Holiday Swap was founded in 2018 by James Asquith, an ex-London banker, and Guinness World Record holder, who is the youngest male to ever travel to all 196 countries in the world. During his journey, James asked himself, “how could I make travel more accessible for everyone?” James said, “After setting the Guinness World Record for my travel, I wanted to create a platform that allowed people to travel for less and see the world.” He then founded Holiday Swap, which has been referred to as “The Tinder of Travel” by Business Insider. The company has also been compared with the Hollywood movie “The Holiday.” After Holiday Swap’s initial success, James quit his finance career in London to make travel accessible and sustainable for everyone.

The platform is designed for like-minded travellers to securely swap, stay and book homes around the world affordably. Holiday Swap brings the most secure, affordable, and sustainable way of travel for its users in an environmental manner.

During this time of massive growth, Holiday Swap has gained over 2 million users across 184 countries. Holiday Swap’s most popular regions include the Americas, Asia, and Australia. During the last 30 days, Holiday Swap has been the most downloaded travel app in over 20 countries.

As a summer promotion, Holiday Swap has been offering 14-day free subscriptions and 20% discounts on bookings for its users. The Chief Strategy Officer of Holiday Swap, Alex Kowtun, said: “2 years ago, I swapped my home in Florida for a condo in New York to learn how the platform works. I immediately learned that this will be the future of discount travel.” “After a year and a half, I met with James and joined Holiday Swap to be part of this vision,” said Kowtun.
