

Indie Rock band, Pistol for Ringo, announce sixth studio release, "AUDIO SURRENDER."

Los Angeles, California Sep 20, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Los Angeles/Philadelphia indie rock band, Pistol for Ringo, is set to release their sixth record, "AUDIO SURRENDER," later this month. The document contains a cover of Pixie's "WAVE OF MUTILATION," which they recorded for an upcoming 2023 Horror/Thriller feature film written by Allisyn Snyder, directed by Dylan Snyder, and produced by Watch The Footage Productions.

"Audio Surrender," sets the 20-year mark for the indie collective, whose members include: LA-based, Steve Arm, Brian Murphy, and Shane Smith and Philadelphia-based singer, songwriter, and musician Ben Arnold and drummer Matty Muir.

"Audio Surrender" was recorded in Philadelphia, PA at Retro City Studios, mixed in Los Angeles at Hetson Sound, and mastered at Chicago Mastering.

Pistol for Ringo has played almost everywhere on the West Coast, from hipster's joints in the 213 area code to San Francisco, and even Vegas, as the opening act for an S&M show (no joke). Just one of many reasons they have endeared themselves to indie rock fans as well as garnered musical contributions and support from the likes of Dave Catching, Rob Barbato, and Greg Hetson.
