JetSet's New Book Release

Books have the power to transform lives. Whether they act as emotional support or as pockets of knowledge, books have always made a difference in the world. But not every book is tailored to all readers. Some seek readers with a certain goal, and such is the case for JetSet Life Hacks: 33 Life Hacks Millionaires, Athletes, Celebrities, & Geniuses Have In Common. With its pages filled with neuro-linguistic programming-backed and proven knowledge, the book aims to change lives and hone the next generation of millionaires.

JetSet Life Hacks is the brainchild of 24-year-old internet American internet celebrity, author, entrepreneur, podcast host, recording artist, filmmaker and public speaker, neuromarketer, NLP coach, and NFTMagazine.com founder, Josh King Madrid, better known by his pseudonym, JetSet. After successfully building an empire of his own, selling over $20 million worth of products online, and being recognized by some of the most prominent publications in the world, such as Forbes, Entrepreneur, Fast Company, and Rolling Stone, JetSet made it his mission to divulge some of the best-kept secrets by industry leaders like himself who he has been fortunate to make connections with.

The book shares 33 proven methods, referred to by JetSet as life hacks, that people can implement or incorporate into their lifestyles to consistently create tangible, positive results. The life hacks also aim to equip and empower readers to overcome all challenges, build lasting generational wealth, and improve the overall quality of their lives. While many books and resources claim to teach audiences about shaping their mindset to be their best selves and reach the pinnacle of their chosen niche, JetSet Life Hacks offers advice proven and lived by people who have already walked the talk. Every life hack listed by the author is backed by experience and rooted in behavioral attributes that propelled him to achieve so much at such a young age.

Asked where his story began, JetSet shared that he engaged in business when he was only in second grade when his father lent him $15 as capital to buy beanies from China at wholesale prices and sell them to the kids in his school and their community so he could pay back his loan and use the profit to buy anything he wanted. This not only taught him to be independent but opened his eyes to the many possibilities entrepreneurship brings, and he has been hooked ever since.

“I went to school and after-school winter camp with the other kids, and I sold all the beanies for $5. I was instantly hooked. I have loved the game of entrepreneurship since that day. This one experience made me realize that I was able to get anything I wanted. I just needed to find out the right information and have an insane drive and work ethic,” the author said.

With JetSet Life Hacks, the visionary aims to provide the knowledge and information he wished he had when he was in the early years of his journey as an entrepreneur. Nonetheless, he hopes his life lessons and life hacks will serve as a blueprint for others. As he continues to cement his empire, one that will surely be remembered through generations, the author aims to inspire thousands, if not millions, through JetSet Life Hacks and empower others with proven methods that fueled him and led him to success over the years.
