Los Angeles, California Oct 31, 2022 (IssueWire.com) - Introducing Faith Barrett to the World

Anyone who watched music star Christina Aguilera's video for her hit "No Es Que Te Extrane" would appreciate the work of the actor that played young Christina's mom in the video. That actor is Faith Barrett, an actor on the rise. Faith has made a name for herself both in New York City and Hollywood and is on the cusp of something even more remarkable. The video was directed by Mike HO and Christina, and produced by Cinema Agents. Thanks to the Casting Directors at Bok Creative, Faith's work was sent to the director who then watched every video, decided Faith could do the job, and Christina wanted someone who resembled her weak mother. The video depicts her upbringing and because of the abuse her mother took from her father, she decide she would grow up to be a strong Independent woman. Christina said this is the most personal song she has done and will ever do. The moral of the story is forgiveness.

Faith Barrett is New Yorker who has featured in several commercials, TV shows, and feature films before getting her Hollywood break. While in New York City, Faith studied and mastered the Stella Adler technique, an acting method where she delves into and imagines the character's world. The actor then uses those imaginations to bring the character to life.

Determined to be the finest in her field, when Faith got to Hollywood, she studied under the famous acting coach Eric Morris. Her dedication to improving herself has led to some breakthroughs for Faith like landing a leading role in a feature film, The Faithful Brethren of Pitt St. In this film, written and produced by the Lamb brothers Phillip and Sidney, the struggles of a Yiddish theatre in New York in the 1960s are shown. She also had a cameo in a Jordan Hinson movie, God Save the Queen, which has already been previewed at the Tribeca Film Festival. In addition, she was also a part of other features.

She has also done a lot of modeling, commercial, and print work. She shot a global print campaign for Lucky Strike cigarettes and appeared in commercials and infomercials for Luminess, Trophy Skin, True Alchemy, and Mayvenn Hair. She also appeared in a National Spot for Huntington Bank.

So far, Faith's journey is finally leading her to the brink of stardom. Playing a prominent role in the video of a song for the Aguilera Album for Christina who is nominated for many Latin Grammy's this year, and was just awarded the Spirit of Hope award at the Latin Billboards can only be interpreted as a positive.

For Faith, it's only a matter of time before she becomes a household name. There's no denying her talent, arduous work, and dedication to her craft. Faith Barrett is represented by the Almond Talent Agency LA. You can follow her on Instagram (@faithbarrettLA). www.imdb.me/faithbarrett
