“as a former debt collector, fraud investigator and a current CPN vendor I assure you using a CPN is 100% legal and it all comes down to your intentions. if you are trying to commit fraud, it doesn't matter if you use a SSN, EIN, or CPN, there is a small chance you get caught. but if your intention is to use a CPN to get a fresh start, get credit cards, car loans, apartment rentals and etc you should get one from a good source. and by a good source I mean a place where you are sure they are checking the generated CPNs with LexisNexis and credit agencies to make sure it is not issued to a child, a deceased person, or someone who is currently using their SSN. check out our website <http://legitcpn.com> and contact us if you have questions.” said Ali Dareshoori, the founder of Ficology.
