If you're suffering from a disability or medical condition that prevents you from working and performing daily activities, you may be entitled to disability benefits through the social security system. However, Social Security Administration (SSA) has some rules and regulations, making the process of claiming SSDI or SSI benefits extensive and complicated. Many times, people are denied on their first attempt. So, whether you've been denied or need assistance in applying for disability benefits, having an experienced disability attorney in Bay Area on your side can get you the benefits you truly deserve. When you work with Mr. Chalk and his team, you will experience open communication and satisfaction above everything else.

Mr. Chalk has been practicing law since 1997, is a past president of the California Applicants' Attorney Association (CAAA) and sits on the board of directors for Workers' Injury Law and Advocacy (WILG). He and his legal team has handled thousands of workers' compensation, social security disability, and supplemental security income claims. When you approach them to file disability benefits, they will never charge a fee until you have received an approval letter and awarded your benefits. They ensure appropriate evidence is submitted in a timely manner to increase your chances of success. Working with Chalk Law Office means you have a team of dedicated disability benefits lawyers in Santa Rosa to help collect your benefits.

The legal team will collect evidence, fill out paperwork, and even write a letter to notify your employer you have been injured.
