

Clearance Deal Websites, the Best Solution to Clear Unwanted Goods

Hangzhou, Zhejiang Dec 11, 2022 (Issuewire.com) - Each year, suppliers store many products in warehouses to sell to their customers; however, they may not sell all of them and some stocks may remain. These overstock and unwanted items impose warehousing costs on the suppliers and they seek the available solutions to clear their warehouses. This problem becomes more important when the suppliers do not own the warehouses especially if they are located in overseas countries since it costs a lot to return the products back to the country of origin. Suppliers who encounter this problem may decide to destroy the unwanted items to save warehousing costs that are harmful to the environment in addition to financial costs.

Another problem is the returned items. Marketplaces and suppliers generally offer a period of time as the money-back guarantee period to let the customers return the items and get a refund if they are not satisfied with the products. Some products are returned for various reasons and even are not used and only the packages are opened by the customers. Returning these items to the warehouses by customers will make another cost for the suppliers since the warehouses charge them again to sort and prepare these items for shipment and the new customers also prefer to receive the new products rather than opened ones. Sometimes suppliers eventually decide to destroy these products and they think it is more profitable than keeping them. A report by ITV News shows the rate of destroying items in an Amazon warehouse that is only an example of what is happening in other warehouses. In this article, we introduce All For Clearance, a startup that strives to resolve the problems mentioned above.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mxqz2g05MTI>

What is the solution to clear unwanted goods?

An excellent solution to clear unwanted products out of warehouses as well as protect the environment and save costs is using clearance deals and coupon websites. One of these websites is All For Clearance (www.allforclearance.com). All For Clearance is a startup striving to collect and publish all clearance deals on one website. Clearance sale deals on the website are added to the website with these two methods:

- 1- All For Clearance's staff are searching for the best deals on the web and sharing them with visitors.
- 2- Suppliers can submit their deals on the website at a fraction of the cost.

A great advantage of this website is there is no requirement for the suppliers to publish their deals compared to some other deal websites that require them to be a member of an affiliate marketplace like Impact, ShareASale, etc.

The deals are published for several days, then they expire and are removed from the listings; therefore, the deals remain fresh. Moreover, the suppliers can update their deals even after it is published on the website to keep the deal details up to date.

Both retail and wholesale deals on one website

Both wholesale and retail sellers can submit their deals on the All For Clearance website. They only need to specify the minimum order quantity of the items when they add the deal details and visitors will see it on the deal detail page.

Here are some frequently asked questions about this website:

Does All For Clearance sell clearance sale products?

All For Clearance does not sell the products and only connects the shoppers with suppliers. If suppliers have an online store or they sell the item on marketplaces, they can enter the link and it will be visible in the deal details section. However, if they don't have any online store, don't sell on marketplaces, or want to sell the items wholesale, a contact form is provided on the deal web page and the shoppers can fill it out to reach out to suppliers.

Is All For Clearance free for shoppers?

All For Clearance is 100% free for shoppers. The buyers can search and find the best deals and click to purchase or contact the deal owners.

Why should suppliers use the All For Clearance website?

Although there are multiple deal and coupon websites, each one has its pros and cons. It is recommended that the suppliers use as many deals and coupon websites as they can when they plan to clear their warehouses.

Conclusion

An excellent solution to clear unwanted products out of warehouses as well as protect the environment and save costs is using clearance deals and coupon websites. All For Clearance is a website to publish sale clearance deals and digital coupons for shoppers.

All For Clearance is a startup with the ambition to become the best clearance deals website on the internet.

Media Contact

All For Clearance

info@allforclearance.com

Source : All For Clearance

See on IssueWire