Priya Prakash

For years, pallets have been the neglected 'backbone' of the entire logistics industry. Pallets are often made out of Pinewood, after the use of which most of them end up in landfills. Only a few pallets can be reused.

This was a major pain point of the entire process. Priya identified the scattered and unorganized structure of the way most manufacturers work.

Priya Prakash set out on a mission to correct this and thus Co-founded EcoPallet, a start-up that focused on manufacturing lightweight yet high-strength and environmentally friendly pallets.
