Lynn Miller-Takacs' book inspires artists as it shares her artistic adventures

The fascinating art book, What Makes My Heart Sing: An Artist's Journey by Lynn Miller-Takacs, was set for display by ReadersMagnet at the New York Library Association 2022 Annual Conference and Trade Show on November 3-4, 2022, at Saratoga Springs City Center at 522 Broadway, Saratoga Springs, NY 12866.

What Makes My Heart Sing is a story about the adventures, travels, insights, and reflections of the author. It will take readers along on her journey as an artist, music lover, entrepreneur, writer, and face painter. Lynn was a shy and quiet child growing up who wanted to be an artist but always doubted herself because she thought artists should be held to a higher standard.

Her book explores an artist's emotional and physical manifestations, as well as the bond between music and visual creation.

Artistic author Lynn Miller-Takacs shares her struggles with and eventual triumph over self-doubt and limiting beliefs. Her story will inspire readers to follow their own artistic dreams and help them realize that they, too, have a special talent that should be shared with the world.

Author

Music, art, and writing have always been Lynn's passions. She is a native of Northern California and resides in Modesto. She studied fine arts and graphic design in college has taken many workshops in painting and drawing and has exhibited her work in a number of art shows, including solo exhibits. Lynn has been a member of various art leagues and associations and has had the pleasure of leading a few of the popular painting nights. In 2016, her Healing Hearts Tree painting was used for the front cover of a booklet for grieving children.

Select gift shops along the Pacific Coast Highway in Northern California sell postcards of her Redwood trees sketches. She credits her Humboldt County collection to the local photographers for her inspiration.

Lynn established a face painting business in 2009 and works at corporate events, grand openings, birthday parties, weddings, and baptisms, as well as, onboard cruise ships touring the Caribbean islands.

She is the newly-published author of the book What Makes My Heart Sing: An Artist's Journey and is inspired to write more in the near future. She says: I paint because it makes my heart sing.
