Mr. Barry Mezey, announced today that his revolutionary new project KWAN 2.0 token is now a reality on the Binance blockchain and available for purchase to benefit those living with special needs. Mezey stated "We want to transform people's lives with special needs by getting them off the sofa from playing video games all day and collecting a disability check to create a job opportunity for those living with special needs. Nothing makes a person feel prouder than holding a job, especially one with autism as the unemployment rate is 97% for those living with autism." KWAN 2.0 will focus on creating job opportunities in original authentic film and television series as well as the media, sports, and entertainment industry around the daily lives of those with special needs because Mezey believes everyone deserves the fundamental right to shine in their own individual way as a star. These films and television series will be broadcasted on the roku channel (B1GBTV) which already features Mezey's own autism humor comedy docu-series and reality tv show (B1G B.) KWAN 2.0 also has plans to sponsor professional handicapped sports leagues, professional handicapped sports federations, and famous professional athletes with mental health and autism disabilities and is currently seeking paid partnerships with these entities as well as various disability rights organizations and charities.
