Our IPL skin rejuvenation is an FDA-certified phototherapy treatment. It can easily treat a variety of skin conditions and help get smoother and clearer-looking skin. This treatment is widely used to reduce the appearance of wrinkles, dark spots, broken capillaries, sun damage, scarring, and many more.

As for the question of how IPL skin rejuvenation works are concerned, it uses intense pulses of light to treat several skin conditions. It has minimum downtime and is one of the safest treatments for skin out there. Our treatment targets the dark cells present inside the layers of the skin and shows visible results right after one treatment. Usually, we recommend our cosmetic dermatologists treatment anywhere between 2-5 IPL sessions, each spaced four weeks apart.

IPL is similar to laser treatment but it merely releases light of many different wavelengths like a photo flash. IPL easily penetrates down to the second layer of your skin without harming the top layer of the skin. The pigment cells absorb the light energy which is converted into heat. The heat destroys the hair follicle to prevent the hair from growing again.

With a team of certified skin therapists, we excel in cosmetic procedures. They are available for consultations and in-clinic treatments at your convenience. They will keep you posted about the procedure and communication after that.

At <https://www.smoothskinandlaser.com.au>, our dermatologists recommend IPL skin treatment to reduce pigmentation because the therapy targets the melanin present in your skin. This causes pigmentation and discoloration, often caused by prolonged sun exposure. Going for 2-3 initial IPL treatments can easily make a significant improvement in the appearance of dark spots. Our IPL treatments can be easily used on the face, neck, and chest, as well as arms and hands.

We at Smooth Skin and Laser involve an initial set of 2-3 treatments spaced about a month apart, followed by 2 to 3 treatments spaced about a month apart, followed by 2 to 3 annual maintenance treatments. The immediate result of initial IPL therapy is a decrease in skin discoloration. Our maintenance treatments help to keep your skin looking younger and healthy, promote collagen growth, prevent the effects of sun damage and give the skin a healthy glow.

Another benefit of IPL therapy is that it can be used in combination with other facial skin procedures, such as chemical peels and microdermabrasion. These treatments target the superficial layer of the skin, while IPL reaches the deeper layers of the skin.

So when it comes to skincare treatment, it's essential to talk to our Skin Care Expert Doctor so that you could get rid of all the problems of skin you are suffering from.
