

"New action movie "Killer Ex" announced, by Director Jim Towns featuring high octane action and martial arts sequences."

Trenton, New Jersey Jan 15, 2023 (Issuewire.com) - Director Jim Towns, known for his work on the movies "House of Bad," "State of Desolation," and "The Beast Inside," has announced that he will be directing a new project with the working title "Killer Ex". The film is set to begin filming in the summer of 2023. The feature will be produced in various locations across New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and California and will be an action and drama film, with exciting martial arts sequences and characters. Towns comments,

"I'm excited at the opportunity to do another project in the martial arts genre— this dynamic style of filmmaking that I've enjoyed for decades, ever since seeing Game of Death as a teenager. Working with martial arts actors is always a great experience for me—they bring this incredible physical talent as well as impressive mental discipline to the work. But for me, it's also all about being able to tell a strong story with interesting characters—and this project will let me do both." Casting for the film is currently being finalized.
