His warm, thoughtful approach and compassionate manner offer individuals a deeper understanding of the internal and external challenges they are facing.

His primary areas of expertise include the assessment and treatment of mood, anxiety, personality, substance use, and psychotic disorders. Dr. Novakovic provides an individualized treatment plan that may include different forms of psychotherapy and offers his expertise in pharmacotherapy and other therapeutic modalities when needed. He relies on an evidence-based practices approach and uses his training and knowledge of neurobiology, and psychoanalytic/cognitive-behavioral therapy to alleviate the most distressing problems that one encounters.

With excellent academic performance, Dr. Novakovic graduated with his medical degree from the University of Belgrade Faculty of Medicine. He then relocated to the United States, performing his residency in adult psychiatry at Maimonides Medical Center. He continued his fellowship in the Schizophrenia/Neuroimaging Program under the supervision of Joseph I. Friedman, MD, and Kenneth Davis, MD at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai. He also dedicated significant time and effort to receiving training in diverse brain stimulation modalities at the Columbia University Psychiatric Institute.

Subsequent to his training, he attained board certification through the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology (ABPN). The ABPN is a not-for-profit corporation dedicated to serving the professions of psychiatry and neurology.

Over the years, Dr. Novakovic has demonstrated his commitment to both clinical and academic psychiatry. He is affiliated with The Mount Sinai Hospital, Staten Island University Hospital at Northwell Health, and James J. Peters Veterans Affairs Medical Center.

Engaged in scholarly writing and academic research, he serves as an Assistant Clinical Professor in Psychiatry at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai.

Among his professional affiliations include the American Psychiatric Association, the New York Academy of Sciences, the American College of Physicians, the New York Chapter & the Harry Stack Sullivan Society.

Psychiatry is the medical specialty devoted to the diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of mental disorders. These include various maladaptations related to mood, behavior, cognition, and perceptions. Psychiatrists evaluate, diagnose, and treat patients with mental, emotional, and behavioral disorders. They conduct thorough psychiatric evaluations, develop treatment plans, prescribe medication, and evaluate treatment results.
