Our new project launches Clifton village and a host of new stop-frame animation characters into the metaverse with a combination of new animation characters, and a virtual Clifton village that can be found at www.cliftonvillagemetaverse.com.

The project already boasts an “early” active community on Twitter under the Twitter handle @Cliftonites_nft and is set to launch its first open-edition animation this Friday.

Details of the open edition can be found here <https://app.manifold.xyz/c/almondos-odyssey>

Early Project plans include,

- Launching a PFP collection of village characters to populate the village,
- Launching a number of open editions that will merge to form the first full animation.
- An animated tv series.
- Short, animated films
- Launching a virtual Clifton real estate sale

Creative Director Richard Higgs quoted, “We are delighted to be bringing more animation magic to the Bristol animation scene and we are hoping to interact with the vast and growing Web3 community”. He added:

“We see Clifton Village as a wonderful place that when blended with our somewhat quirky characters can catch the imagination and bring joy to the metaverse and web 3”.
