

YOUNG PALESTINIAN AND ISRAELI WOMEN Share global stage, Say NO to current violence and extremism

What does it mean to be a young female peace activist living in Israel and Palestine today? Three young women peacemakers from Israel and Palestine are determined to make their voices heard by speaking out against war and violence.

Santa Fe, New Mexico Feb 21, 2023 (Issuewire.com) - After one of the deadliest years on record and in the face of the rise of extremism including the recent Israeli election, three young women from Israel and Palestine remain committed to peacemaking and coexistence and are determined to make their voices heard.

"I feel it is a privilege to share my view on the conflict and express how truly complex the situation is, not only between Israelis and Palestinians, but also within the Israeli people."
Tamar Levin (21) Jewish Israeli

Join Jenan, a Palestinian from the West Bank; Tamar, a Jewish Israeli; and Shams, an Arab Israeli, as they travel across the United States, as part of Tomorrow's Women's Young Leader Speaking Tour. These three young changemakers will engage with U.S. audiences of all ages and backgrounds, sharing their powerful, often heartbreaking journeys and speaking out against the unending conflict - at venues in San Francisco, Los Angeles, and New York. United by their shared quest for peace, justice, and equality, these young women will speak at synagogues, high schools, youth organizations, leading universities including Stanford and UCLA, public spaces, and private homes offering an inspiring alternative to the wave of radicalization sweeping the region and a glimpse at, the powerful role young women can play in the peace movement.

Their final stop will be at the United Nations in New York City. Jenan, Tamar, and Shams will speak at the NGO CSW67 Forum, an advocacy platform for the empowerment of women and girls held in conjunction with the UN's Commission on the Status of Women's annual two-week summit.

"It's such an honor to have the opportunity to represent my country and my people at the United Nations." Jenan (28) Palestinian from the West Bank

About Tomorrow's Women

Founded in 2003 after the second Intifada, Tomorrow's Women (TW) trains young women (15-29) from Palestine, Israel, and the United States to be strong, compassionate leaders who partner to resolve conflicts and inspire action that promotes equality, peace, and justice for all. TW's proprietary model for Compassionate Dialogue draws from the work of the Compassionate Listening Project, founded by Leah Green and the late Quaker activist Gene Knudsen-Hoffman. We are the only cross-border organization in the region focused solely on young women in Israel/West Bank/Gaza.

2023 Young Leader Tour Events

San Francisco

Stanford University (Open to the Press)

University of San Francisco (Open to the Press)

Moisha House (hosted by Temple Emanu-El)

Castilleja High School

Jewish Youth for Community Action

Manny's (public event/Open to the press)

Los Angeles

Temple Wilshire

Jewish Federation of Greater Los Angeles

UCLA

New York

UN Commission on the Status of Women, Church Center of United Nations, 11th Floor

Monday, March 6th 12:30 EST In-person + Live stream Link Registration Required (Open to the press)

Media Contact

Tomorrow's Women

tarrie@tomorrowswomen.org

5058198138

369 Montezuma Avenue, #566

Source : Tomorrow's Women

See on IssueWire