William Christopher Ford, known for his memorable role as Cobra Kai Henchman "Dennis" in "Karate Kid Part III" as well as his recent Amazon Prime series "52 Masters", has officially joined the cast of director Jim Towns' upcoming film Killer Ex. Ford is rumored to be playing one of the villains in the action/drama movie. This is no surprise, as Ford is also an accomplished career martial artist with nearly 50 years of training.

Killer Ex tells the story of a former assassin's comfortable family life being upended when his beautiful ex shows up out of nowhere with a slew of killers after her. The movie promises to be an action-packed film that will keep the audience on the edge of their seats.

Ford's acting career began with his memorable performance as Dennis in "Karate Kid Part III", terrorizing Ralph Macchio's character Daniel throughout the movie. He has since appeared in numerous films and television series. He is also the creator and host of the show "52 Masters" (Amazon Prime), which explores the world of martial arts and profiles its top practitioners.

Ford shared: "I am extremely excited about working on Killer Ex. The script by director/writer Jim Towns is packed with lots of action, and with cool characters that I feel the audience will connect to. It's a different take on the genre and I really dig it." He added: "Jim and I have worked on many projects together including every episode of "52 Masters", and as always I'm honored and thrilled to be working with him. Additionally, my fellow co-stars Elena Churinova and Mohammed Qissi are both phenomenal talents and together we are going to create some fantastic action. I'm excited to bring nearly 50 years of martial arts experience to my character as well as a good amount of humor, my long hair, and of course, coffee! LOTS of coffee!"

Director Jim Towns expressed his excitement about casting William Christopher Ford in the feature, stating, "I'm thrilled to have William on board for Killer Ex; We've worked together on a dozen projects over the last 10 years, and I hope to collaborate on a dozen more. He's a great talent, a strong creative partner, and a good friend."
