

Melissa Wilke, DC, a Chiropractor with Wilke Chiropractic

Get to know Chiropractor Dr. Melissa Wilke, who serves patients in Geneva, Illinois.

Founder of Wilke Chiropractic in Geneva, Illinois. Her mission is to make patients feel at home and comfortable while treating a wide range of complaints, including back and neck pain, headaches, sleep issues, sports injuries, muscle and ligament sprains, strains, and soreness. She provides specific and tailored treatments to meet each patient's unique needs and situation.

Unlike conventional medicine, which focuses on treating disease once it occurs, her approach emphasizes improving health to reduce the risk of pain and illness in the first place. This approach has become increasingly popular, as most people prefer to be healthy and avoid illness if possible.

Academically, Dr. Wilke attended McGill University in Montreal, Canada, where she earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology. She initially considered medical school but found that chiropractic care's integrated approach to medicine made more sense. Her rigorous schooling in chiropractic care included acupuncture, sports injury rehabilitation and prevention, various therapeutic modalities, orthotics, and myofascial release techniques. After earning her Doctor of Chiropractic degree at the National University of Health Sciences, she continued her studies to attain her Certified Chiropractic Sports Physician credentials.

The doctor's natural, pain-free approach to health care is highly valued by her patients. She strives to positively impact their lives and maintain strong patient relationships. Her patients can achieve healthy results without the use of prescription drugs with negative side effects or surgery that can create as many problems as it solves.

Chiropractic is a form of alternative medicine that mainly deals with the diagnosis and treatment of mechanical disorders of the musculoskeletal system, especially the spine. A chiropractor uses spinal adjustments, manipulation, and other techniques to manage patients' health concerns, including neck pain, back pain, headaches, vertigo and a long list of other ailments and conditions. They aim to improve patients' functionality and quality of life by properly aligning the body's musculoskeletal structure and enabling the body to heal itself naturally, without the use of medication or surgery.
