New York City, New York Apr 12, 2023 (IssueWire.com) - Anastasiya is a certified physician assistant currently practicing in New Jersey.

A physician assistant-certified (PA-C) is a graduate of an accredited physician assistant educational program who has undergone testing by the National Commission on Certification of Physician Assistants. PA-Cs are state-licensed to practice medicine with a supervising physician.

The PA-C educational program is modeled after the medical school curriculum and completed over the course of about 27 months. Training includes a combination of classroom and clinical instruction.

Students who want to become PA-Cs must have completed at least two years of college courses in basic science and behavioral science. This is similar to pre-med studies required of medical students.

PA-Cs complete more than 2,000 hours of clinical training in services such as family medicine, internal medicine, obstetrics and gynecology, pediatrics, general surgery, emergency medicine, and psychiatry. When PA-Cs graduate from their program, they must take national certification tests, commonly called boards.
