Richmond, Virginia Apr 19, 2023 (Issuewire.com) - Tina Glasneck, USA Today's bestselling author and contributing author to the Writers on the Moon project, will be a guest author at RavenCon, one of the largest science fiction and fantasy conventions on the East Coast.

Established in 2006, Raven Con is a much-awaited annual event for sci-fi, fantasy, and horror fans. This year's convention, taking place from April 21 to April 23 at the Virginia Crossing by Hilton in Glen Allen, VA, promises to be another exciting event with an all-star lineup of guest authors, artists, and speakers.

As a guest author at Raven Con, Tina Glasneck will share her unique insights and expertise on the intersection of science fiction, fantasy, and space exploration, as well as her experiences as part of the Writers on the Moon project. Writers on the Moon is a lunar time capsule project aimed at sending a diverse collection of stories to the moon aboard a digital data card for future anthropologists and generations to come. The project's payload will ride on the first Astrobotic lunar lander, Peregrine Mission One, which is also poised to be the first commercial mission to the moon. Once the data card is on the lunar surface, it will remain there permanently.

"Spearheaded by Susan Kaye Quinn, Writers on the Moon is a lunar time capsule project," explained Glasneck, whose bestselling series, The Hell Chronicles, is part of the project. "And it will serve as a time capsule for future generations to discover."

A modern-day Renaissance woman, Glasneck is a bestselling author with over twenty books to her name. Besides writing, she is a singer-songwriter, artist, and mentor to budding authors.
