Bladderwrack powder is a type of seaweed that is rich in iodine and fiber. Iodine is essential for healthy thyroid function, and fiber is essential for supporting digestive health. Bladderwrack powder is a great addition to any smoothie, soup, or broth.

Kelp organic powder is another type of seaweed that is rich in vitamins and minerals. Kelp organic powder is perfect for adding to soups, stews, or even sprinkled on top of a salad.

Graviola leaf powder is derived from the graviola tree, found in the rainforests of South America. It is known for its anti-inflammatory and antioxidant properties. Graviola leaf powder can be added to tea blends, smoothies, or even as a seasoning on top of a salad.

Salicornia powder, also known as sea beans or samphire, is a type of succulent plant that grows in coastal regions. It is a rich source of antioxidants, vitamins, and minerals and is known for its unique salty taste.
