Florida City, Florida May 23, 2023 (Issuewire.com) - Exposure is something that every rising music artist requires to give their career the boost it has been lacking. And to gain more exposure all you just need is a platform like Daily Music Roll. They are one of the renowned online music magazines taking part in the avid hustle and bustle of this industry along with that they are also keeping their options open for aspiring music artists to gain better light for their career. And to promote a music artist they have now offered a month end sale of 10% discount on each of their services. You will get a chance to feature in Google News and get your music recognized with advertisements.

Their service will give you an incredible amount of recognition with magazine features. To feature in their monthly magazines you will need to visit their page and offer your email id and click on the red 'Get Started' button. On this new page, you will see that for $79 you can get your feature post placed in one of their monthly magazine pages. If you want 2 pages of post then you need to pay $135. If you want to create a portfolio of yourself and your career it will cost you $90. You can also buy advertisement options which include full-page (765X1027) ads and feature artist ads at $199. For half a page (200X500) you will pay $105.

Along with their content marketing, you can get your videos noticed by thousands of viewers and avid readers. You can opt for their paid PRs, pre-release, music review, and artist interviews with them. You can also intrigue more people with these services. To elevate more you can always go for paid advertisements as well. They can feature your music in the form of ads on Google, Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter. You just need to offer your email ID, your song link, and choose the services and pay for it with PayPal or Stripe payment options.
