Irvine, California May 12, 2023 (Issuewire.com) - A Grassroots Campaign "SAVE THE MEXICAN PIZZA" with the intention to keep Taco Bell's Mexican Pizza on the menu has finally convinced the fast-food restaurant to bring back its beloved Mexican Pizza. The return of the Mexican Pizza is a major culinary victory thanks to the dedication and persistence of all the devoted die-hard Taco Bell fans, who petitioned for the item's return after it was removed from the menu three years ago.

Krish Jagirdar, a Taco Bell superfan, spearheaded the Change.org petition with over 200K signatures, making it one of the most signed petitions in the platform's history. The petition gained widespread attention, with fans expressing their love for the Mexican Pizza and their disappointment over its removal from the menu. "Like many Indian-Americans who grew up vegetarian, we had limited access to the 'fun' fast food, so Taco Bell became a bridge to belonging in American culture for many kids like me who grew up in immigrant households," said Jagirdar. "That's what made it especially devastating when the Mexican Pizza was pulled from menus in 2020, but fast forward two years later and I found myself on a conference call with the Taco Bell team as they shared news of the return of the Mexican Pizza, showing that listening to their fans is clearly embedded in their DNA. It's one of the many reasons Taco Bell is more than just another fast-food restaurant."

Taco Bell heard the calls from fans and decided to bring back the menu item, much to the delight of Mexican Pizza lovers worldwide. The Mexican Pizza features a crispy flour tortilla layered with seasoned beef, beans, and melted cheese, topped with tomatoes and Mexican spices, all served with a dollop of sour cream.

"We're thrilled to announce the return of the Mexican Pizza, and we couldn't have done it without our passionate fans," said a spokesperson for Taco Bell. "We're excited to see the joy this item brings back to our customers and look forward to continuing to listen to their feedback and create new menu items they love."

Taco Bell is planning several events and promotions leading up to the Mexican Pizza's return today, so fans can celebrate the comeback of their favorite menu item. Whether it's through social media, special menu deals, or in-store promotions, Taco Bell is going all out to ensure the Mexican Pizza's return is a memorable one.

The return of the Mexican Pizza is a testament to the power of passionate fans and the willingness of Taco Bell to listen to their customers. We can't wait to sink our teeth into that crispy, cheesy goodness once again!
