

Six Word Wonder 2023: Madison Stahl Wins Writing Contest with Moving Entry

The new book, Six Word Memoirs by Doug Weller contains the short-list of over 20,000 entries to the shortest writing contest on earth, featuring stories, poems, memoirs, and jokes, told in just six words.

officially concluded, and the judges have selected a winner. With over 20,000 entries from all over the world, the competition was incredibly tough, but Madison Stahl's entry stood out as a moving, thought-provoking, and profound six-word wonder.

Stahl's entry reads: "Her wheelchair empty, they dance again." This simple yet powerful entry touched the hearts of the judges and reminded us of the beauty of life's journey. It captures the essence of living fully and the optimism of what might come at the end.

The Six Word Wonder Contest aims to encourage people to experiment with the six-word format, and this year's competition did not disappoint. The entries ranged from stories of darkness and light, to amusement and genuine seriousness. The judging process was challenging, but the best Six Word Wonders triggered emotion in the judges.

The Six Word Wonder contest seeks out the best stories, memoirs, poems, and jokes told in only six words. The entire shortlist of over 300 stories is collected in the new book Six Word Memoirs by Doug Weller.

Before revealing the winner, the organizers expressed their gratitude to all the participants who submitted their six-word wonders. The words were inspiring, thought-provoking, and deeply moving, and the judges were honored to read each and every one of them.

The winner of the 2023 Six Word Wonder Contest, Madison Stahl's six-word wonder is a testament to her talent and creativity, and the judges have no doubt that it will inspire countless others to reflect on the beauty of life's journey.
