“These wonderful islanders, with an untold story, may have wisdom that may share and, in the process, benefit from.”

— Francis F. Pitard

In the captivating work of Francis F. Pitard, Heirs of a Lost Race takes readers on an adventure like no other. Be prepared to be swept away to a pristine world and through the perilous depths of the Pacific, all through Pitard’s vivid and evocative writing style.

Pitard’s great knowledge and research of Tahiti and the South Pacific provides readers with insightful journeys of beauty and peril. Heirs of a Lost Race follows a narrative that inspires readers to find their sense of integrity within a world filled with deception and darkness. The characters of the novel offer a peek into the gloriously multifaceted depths of human nature, from love to misdirected hate, to the search for a greater purpose.

Dr. Francis F. Pitard is a consulting expert in Sampling, Statistical Process Control and Total Quality management. He has a Doctorate of Technology from the Aalborg University in Denmark. He is the author of several textbooks on Sampling Theory and Practice, two historical novels about Polynesians — Heirs of a Lost Race and Rapa Nui Settlers, and the biography of his great-aunt Aline Virmoux — From Normandy to the Hell of Ravensbrück.

Immerse yourself into an ancient world of adventure and find your purpose while being inspired by this beautiful work. Heirs of a Lost Race is available on Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and other booksellers.
