Get to know Neuroradiologist Dr. Don Schomer, who serves patients in Houston, Texas.

New York City, New York Feb 16, 2024 (Issuewire.com) - A top professional in the field of neuroradiology, Dr. Schomer serves as a Professor in the Department of Neuroradiology, Division of Diagnostic Imaging at The University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center.

Back in 1979, he received his Bachelor of Science degree in Biophysics from The University of Houston, and earned his Master of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering from the same educational venue in 1986. He then went on to complete his medical education and residency in diagnostic radiology at the University of Texas Health Sciences Center at San Antonio, before completing a fellowship in neuroradiology at the Stanford University School of Medicine.

An expert in his field, the doctor is board-certified in diagnostic radiology and neuroradiology by the American Board of Radiology (ABR). The ABR oversees the certification and ongoing professional development of specialists in diagnostic radiology, interventional radiology, radiation oncology, and medical physics.

Professionally, Dr. Schomer is an active member of the Head Injury Institute, and the Radiological Society of North America.

Neuroradiology is a subspecialty of radiology focusing on the diagnosis and characterization of abnormalities of the central and peripheral nervous system, spine, and head and neck using neuroimaging techniques. Neuroradiologists are doctors who focus on diagnosing conditions of the spine, neck, head, and central nervous system. They use medical equipment, such as computed tomography or magnetic resonance imaging machines, to identify problems.
