

Floh's Transformable Suitcase Scooter Now Available in Multiple Countries

Schleswig, Schleswig-Holstein Feb 5, 2024 (IssueWire.com) - Floh, the innovative travel solutions brand, has announced the worldwide availability of its highly-anticipated Transformable Suitcase Scooter. Customers in Australia, New Zealand, the UK, the USA, and Brazil can now experience the ultimate convenience and versatility offered by the Floh.

Engineered with German precision, the Floh Transformable Suitcase Scooter is the first of its kind, combining transformable luggage with a high-performance scooter. The result is a product that provides an unmatched level of flexibility, equipped with exchangeable bags and Ackermann steering, a technology used in high-performance race cars, ensuring exceptional user control and handling.

Gregor Von Bismarck, the visionary and founder of Floh, is a lifelong student of film, literature, and business. Guided by a rich heritage of thinkers, innovators, and adventurers.

Gregor's commitment to sustainability is reflected in his previous work. He has built six renewable energy plants in Germany that use wood chips as fuel, significantly reducing carbon emissions. Additionally, a hot-water supply network he implemented has saved costs while lowering carbon emissions by up to 99%.

Inspired by his own experiences traveling with his young son, Gregor designed the blueprint for the Floh Transformable Suitcase Scooter, combining his passions for travel, sustainability, and innovation.

Now, that Floh Transformable Suitcase Scooter is available in several countries, it's an exciting moment for travelers worldwide. The scooter reimagines the conventions of travel, and it's perfect for navigating busy airports or exploring new places.
